

December 9, 2020

Dear Lee Pesky Learning Center Community,

We thank you for your patience and your trust in LPLC as we continue to provide virtual services to students, families, clients, and teachers. We will begin spring semester (January 4, 2021) with the same online model that we have employed since March, 2020. We will make decisions about when to resume in-person activities based on guidance provided by the CDC and Central District Health.

We have been providing distance services since 2014 – and have consistently shown we are able to achieve the same great results that we do in person. Our counselors have completed telehealth training and are seeing clients through Secure Video. Our education specialists are familiar and practiced with this technology.

Our goal is to minimize disruptions to learning, and to support students and families as we all navigate these unusual circumstances together.

Academic Intervention and Coaching Clients, please click HERE for access to more information.

Counseling Clients, Please click HERE for more detailed information.

Evaluation Clients, for now, we are continuing with the components of the evaluation process that we can do remotely, and have started scheduling in person evaluations, following careful guidelines and procedures to protect client and staff safety. Dr. Anne Clohessy, our lead evaluator, will be reaching out via email/phone to coordinate adjustments and accommodations. More information can be found HERE.

Teachers and Schools, we understand this is an uncertain time for you. Our team of professional development experts will work with you to determine how best to proceed with scheduled trainings and coaching sessions. More information on how we will continue to serve you can be found HERE.

We are hopeful for 2021 and the possibility of serving students and teachers in-person or online!

Thank you,

Lindy Crawford
Executive Director